Enter Nim, Piſtoll, Bardolfe, Hoſter, and a boy.

Hoſt. I prethee ſweet heart,
Let me bring thee ſo farre as Staines.
Piſt. No fur, no fur.
Bar. Well, ſir Iohn is gone, God be with him.
Hoſt. I, he is in Arthors boſome, if euer any were,
He went away as if it were a cryſombd childe,
Betweene twelue and one,
Iuſt at turning of the tide;
His noſe was as ſharpe as a pen;
For when I ſaw him fumble with the ſheets,
And talke of flowers, and ſmile vpon his fingers ends,
I knew there was no way but one.
How now ſir Iohn, quoth I?
And he cryed three times, God, God, God,
Now I to comfort him, bad him not thinke of God,
I hope there was no ſuch need.
Then he bad me put more cloathes on his feete,
And I felt to them, and they were as cold as any ſtone,
And to his knees, and they were as cold as any ſtone.
And ſo vpward, & vpward, and all was as cold as ſtone.
Nim. They ſay he cride out on Sacke.
Hoſt. I that he did.
Boy. And of women.
Hoſt. No that he did not.
Boy. Yes that he did, & ſed they were diuels incarnate.
Hoſt, Indeed carnation was a colour he neuer loued.
Nim. Well, he did cry out on women.
Hoſt. Indeed he did in ſome ſort handle women
But then he was rumaticke,
And talkt of the whore of Babilon.
Boy. Hoſtes, do you remember he ſaw a Flea ſtand
Vpon Bardolfes noſe, and ſed it was a blacke ſoule
Burning in hell?

Bard.

Bar. Well, God
That was all the we
Nim. Shall we ſ
The king will be g
Piſt. Cleare vp t
Looke to my chatt
Truſt none; the wo
Mens words are w
And hold faſt is the
Therefore cophetu
Touch her ſoft lips
Bar. Farewell ho
Nim. I cannot ki
But adieu.
Piſt. Keepe faſt t

Enter King

King. Now you
Of Bourbon, and of
You ſee the King o
For he is footed on
Dolphin. My gra
Tis meete we all go
And arme vs againſ
And view the weak
But let vs do it with
No with no more, t
England were troul
For my good Lord,
Her ſcepter ſo fanta
So guided by a ſhal
That feare attends
Con. O peace Prin

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Henry V (STC 22291) LONDON, 1608 THE BRITISH LIBRARY